Commercial Club Addresses Executive

Fairbanks, Alaska, Oct. 18. The Fairbanks Commercial Club proposes the following communication to the President and his Cabinet and to Congress: "One half of the total gold output of Alaska is eaten up by transportation charges. This burden on the mining industry could be reduced one half by a system of good roads which would make it possible to open mines in an immense territory which cannot now be touched because of the high cost of transportation. Growth of Alaskan industries and population depends upon good roads. Civic commercial bodies of Alaska therefore unite in requesting Congress to appropriate one million annually during the next five years for the improvement, construction and maintenance of roads in Alaska and request the President to incorporate a recommendation for such an appropriation in his next annual message."

No wise man ever wished to be younger.—Swift.

Gov. Clark At Portland

Portland, Oct. 13.—Governor Walter E. Clark arrived here yesterday afternoon to investigate the asylum here, holding the contract for the care of the Alaska insane, add will remain several days in the city, being the guest of both the press and commercial clubs while in the city.

Today Governor Clark refused to discuss the investigation, other than to state it would be made in a satisfactory manner, and a report made to the interior department at once.—Dispatch.

The Mississippi River.

John L. Matthews in his "The Conservation of Water" says that 100,000 men standing on the banks of the Mississippi with shovels and an unlimited supply of rich earth at hand and tolling twelve hours every day 365 days in the year could not throw into the Mississippi as much soil as the river annually carries into the gulf of Mexico.

According to Rules.

"Why, you absentminded man, are you starting out with an umbrella on such a shiny day?"

"I am bound for the art gallery."

"But you cannot exhibit an umbrella!"

"Of course not, but a notice on the catalogue says that one must leave his cane or umbrella outside before he can enter."—Puck.

Big Game Hunters Return

Lord Lascelles and M. W. Ward are Repaid for Long Trip From England

Monday evening, Lord Lascelles and Melville W. Ward, of London England, who have spent two months at the headwaters of the Stikine and Iskut Rivers under the guidance of Charles Ruse, of this place returned to Wrangell and will take passage on the Princess May, enroute for England.

The party was fortunate in securing a variety of fine heads, three sheep, three goats, four moose and five caribou falling to their lot. The heads in each variety are fine specimens and easily the record for size for the year.

The hunters report game is very plentiful this year, and the quantity, variety, and size of the heads brought out bears out the statement.

Messrs Strong and Shangle of Prince Rupert accompanied the party from the Iskut and brought out two moose. They returned Tuesday evening to the Iskut country and will hunt for grizzly bear.

The Duckland Comes Back

Capt. Johansen took our public school teachers and a great many of the students to Ideal Cove, Saturday. Much interest was manifested at dusk Sunday evening as many people thought Capt. Johansen would succeed in duplicating his trick of two weeks ago when he grounded the boat in the mouth of the Stikine.

This is the second attempt to reach the La Conte Glacier. Both water ways have proved too much and it is predicted that the next attempt will be overland.

Much Needed Improvement

The past week has seen a great change in the condition of the sidewalk through the government reserve: Deputy U. S. Marshal Schnabel, has obtained the government sanction for a new walk and for several days past the Marshal, Jailor and prisoners have been hard at work building it.

The people of Wrangell are much indebted to the local government officials for this much needed improvement and convenience.

There will be a social Friday evening given by the Ladies Aid Society at the native school building. Coffee, cake and sandwiches for sale. Amusements for children,

Deer Plentiful

Messrs Jackson, Cunningham, Roberts and Stewart returned Tuesday from a hunting trip to Admiralty Island. They secured one bear and eight deer, the bear falling to the lot of Roberts.

The party report that deer are plentiful on Admiralty this year.

While coming in, in the Flagship Red Wing, Admiral Jackson reports that they encountered some rough weather and that the Red Wing pitched about some but they came straight through though the S. S. Jefferson was obliged to tie up and wait for the storm to pass.

Old Resident

Goes South

Al Osborne took passage on the Jefferson Monday, on his way to California. Mr. Osborne will look up some farming land in the vicinity of Los Angeles and if satisfied with the location will return and take his family to the new home.

Telegraph Makes Last Trip

Late Wednesday afternoon, the Launch, Telegraph, came in from up river with a list of seventeen passengers of which the following is a partial list: S. C. Augsbury, San Francisco, J. S. Shepherd, J. Williams, F. W. Belt, K. K. Horn, J. Roach, New York City, Lord Beauchamp, W. Pike, H. P. O'Farrell, Capt. Douglas-Pennant, England, Hon. E. B. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Baltimore, Md. and A. V. Johnstone, Victoria, B. C.

To Stop Hiccoughs.

Simple cases of hiccough are often relieved by such measures as sucking ice or taking salt and vinegar, says the New York Medical Journal. Pulling the tongue forward and holding it for some time is an effective procedure. Sometimes obstinate hiccough is relieved when the patient is strong by having him hang with the arms extended and grasping some beam or pole, so that his feet do not touch the floor. With all the abdominal muscles tense, have him hold his breath as long as possible. Sneezing is very efficient in certain cases, should it be the exact opposite to hiccough, being a sudden expiratory act.

Alaska Furs

A $50,000.00 lot of Alaskan furs was recently sold by the collectors, The Northern Commercial Company, of San Francisco.

These furs, which are regarded as the best collection on the West Coast of the United States, collected at the numerous tarding posts throughout Alaska, and as far north as the Arctic Ocean, comprise most descriptions, though chiefly Marten, Mink and Foxes of all kinds, and by reason of merit and quality have attained an international reputation.

School Notes

Weston Delgity, Correspondent

The Senior class are deep in the mysteries of drafts, but they will "pull through" and be bookkeepers some day.

It doesn't seem like a month since last examinations, but we will have the "dreaded things" next week.

There is a common belief among the school children that the school is built over a volcano. Last week smoke was seen rising into the room through a ventilator. If persons who are wondering aimlessly around, would choose other quarters for a smokeroom, the pupils would be more comfortable and the building safer.

People around town were much surprised at not hearing the thrilling notes of the school bugle a few days ago. But do not fear, friends, the danger is safely passed over and the bugler is on the job again. Many people have asked why they were deprived of the pleasure of hearing the Boy Wonder play. The excuse we give is that a canker attached itself to the inside of the bugler's lower lip and he was unable to make a clear note.

A Dance Without a Smile.
 They have a singular kind of dance conducted on the greens of country villages in Russia. The dancers stand apart, a knot of young men here, a knot of maidens there, each sex by itself and silent as a crowd of mutes. A piper breaks into a tune. A youth pulls off his cap and challenges his girl with a wave and a bow. If the girl is willing she waves her handkerchief in token of assent. The youth advances, takes a corner of the handkerchief in his hand and leads his lassie round and round. No word is spoken, and no laugh is heard. Stiff with cords and rich with braids, the girl moves heavily by herself, going round and round and never allowing her partner to touch her hand. The pipe goes droning on for hours in the same sad key and measure, and the prize of merit in this "circling," as the dance is called, is given by spectators to the lassie who in all that summer revelry has never spoken and never smiled.

Wanted More Converts.
 Southey in his life of Wesley relates the following whimsical incident. He states that some of the opponents of these religionists in the excess of zeal against enthusiasm took up a whole wagon load of Methodists and carried them before a justice. When they were asked what these persons had done there was an awkward silence. At last one of the accusers said, "Why, they pretend to be better than other people, and, besides, they pray from morning till night." The magistrate asked if they had done nothing else. "Yes, sir," an old man said. "An't please your worship, they have converted my wife. Till she went among them she had such a tongue, and now she is as quiet as a lamb." "Carry them back; carry them back," the magistrate said, "and let them convert all the scolds in the town!"

Icebergs and Echoes.
 Icebergs are always a source of worry to the transatlantic steamship skippers. It isn't pleasant to run along through a fog or a murky night and smash into one of these floating mountains of ice. The liner captains have a way of finding ice that at first strikes the landsman as curious. When it is suspected there are bergs in the neighborhood the whistle is kept going. If there is an echo the navigator slows down and keeps a sharp eye out, for echoes don't grow in the open ocean.

Disraeli's Gorgeous Costume.
 When Disraeli was a young man he once went on a vacation trip to Corfu in this extraordinary costume: "A blood red shirt with silver buttons as big as shillings, an immense scarf for girdle, full of pistols and daggers; red cap, red slippers, broad blue striped jacket and trousers. His servant, engaged for the occasion, wore a Mameluke dress of crimson and gold, with a white turban thirty yards long and a saber glittering like a rainbow."—London Spectator.

The Difficulty.
 The First Worker—Manner born to be blowed! D'joo mean ter say if me an' you come into a bit o' splotch we wouldn't keep our ends up with these 'ere dooks and people?
 His Doubting Friend—Oh, we should be orl right, but our missuses 'd give the game away, yer know.—London Sketch.

The Landlubber.
 They were enlightening the landlubber as to maritime matters. He was becoming more and more crest-fallen as their explanations progressed.
 "Why, I always thought," he sadly sighed, "that the port side of a ship was the one nearest port!"—Boston Herald.

Maddening.
 "They really fear she will become insane. You see, she found a diary he kept before he married her."
 "Oh, I see! And the awful revelations?"
 "Revelations? No. It was all in cipher, and she couldn't read a word of it!"—London Tit Bits.

An Affront.
 D'Auber—Your daughter paints in the Dutch school, does she not? Mrs. Newrich—Not much she don't! We pay $50 a quarter to give her private lessons at home. Dutch school indeed!—Philadelphia Record.

Posting Mother.
 "Did that young man kiss you last night?"
 "Mother, do you suppose he came all the way up here just to hear me sing?"
